Tufts University Department of Anthropology is seeking qualified applicants to teach three undergraduate courses in AY2016-17: Biological Anthropology in Fall 2016; and in Spring 2017, either Food, Nutrition, and Culture or Human Adaptation, plus a course in the candidate’s area of specialization. Biological Anthropology is an introductory course that introduces students to evolutionary perspectives on human biology - including Mendelian and population genetics, human growth and adaptation, primates, and human paleontology. Applicants must have PhD in hand in Anthropology, Human Evolutionary Biology, or similar field.

Please send letter of application, CV, evidence of teaching excellence, names and e-mail contact information for two references, and list of potential topics and readings. All application materials must be submitted via Interfolio at https://apply.interfolio.com/34121. For more information on the position, please contact lynn.wiles@tufts.edu.

Review of applications will begin on March 4, 2016 and continue until the position is filled. We are committed to increasing the diversity of our faculty. Tufts University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity employer. Members of underrepresented groups are strongly encouraged to apply.