BASIC RESEARCH QUERIES:

If you want to look up the particulars on a Greek or Latin author or topic, then consult the following as they often differ in the amount of detail or emphasis:

- Brill's New Pauly Online [current online edition with supplements = 2015]  \(\text{(RG = Quick Link)}\)

NOTE: Consult also when relevant:

- Brill’s New Pauly Supplements I, vol. 1 (Chronologies of the Ancient World: Names, Dates and Dynasties)
- Brill’s New Pauly Supplements I, vol. 2 (Dictionary of Greek and Latin Authors and Texts)
- Brill’s New Pauly Supplements I, vol. 3 (Historical Atlas of the Ancient World)
- Brill’s New Pauly Supplements I, vol. 4 (The Reception of Myth and Mythology)
- Brill’s New Pauly Supplements, vol. 5 (The Reception of Classical Literature)
- Brill’s New Pauly Supplements I, vol. 6 (History of classical Scholarship: A Biographical Dictionary)
- Brill’s New Pauly Supplements II, vol. 7 (Figures of Antiquity and their Reception in Art, Literature and Music)
- Brill’s New Pauly Supplements II, vol. 8 (The Reception of Antiquity in Renaissance Humanism)

NOTE: Articles in Brill's New Pauly Online may be switched from English to German; this capability is very useful for graduate students wishing to practice reading German.

- Additional Recommended Resources  \(\text{(RG = Reference > General Reference Sources)}\)

If you want to search for bibliography on an author, text, or topic, then consult:

- L’année philologique [begins 1924-1926 -> volume 85 (2014)]  \(\text{(RG = Quick Link)}\)

NOTE: Abbreviations of journals cited in L’année philologique can be easily determined by consulting Abbreviations: L’année philologique \(\text{(RG = Quick Link)}\)

- Gnomon Bibliographische Datenbank (for bibliography not yet included in L’année philologique)  \(\text{(RG = Guides and Bibliographies > Bibliographic Databases)}\)
- Multi-Library Databases, Comprehensive Classics Databases, and Select Subject Databases  \(\text{(RG = Guides and Bibliographies > Bibliographic Databases)}\)
If you want to look up reviews of a particular book on an author, text, or topic, then consult:

- L’année philologique [begins 1924-1926 -> volume 85 (2014)]
  (RG = Quick Link)
  NOTE: Reviews will be cited at the conclusion of the book listing, but the citations will be abbreviated, so you will need to consult Abbreviations: L’année philologique
  (RG = Quick Link)

- Gnomon Bibliographische Datenbank (for bibliography not yet included in L’année philologique)
  (RG = Guides and Bibliographies > Bibliographic Databases)

- Bryn Mawr Classical Review [begins 1990 ->]
  (RG = Quick Link)
  NOTE: Select Archives and use Index by Authors.

If you want to consult Greek or Latin texts, then you have a number of databases with varying degrees of completeness and search capabilities:

- Perseus Digital Library (Greek and Latin texts)
  (RG = Quick Link)
  Useful access to a compilation of canonical texts (Greek and Latin) with English translation, search and analytical capabilities, but the database is not a complete listing of texts (e.g. Ennius, Annales is missing).
  NOTE: For the canon of authors and texts included:
  NOTE: For word search in the Greek texts available in Perseus:
  http://perseus.uchicago.edu/#GreekTexts
  NOTE: For word search in the Latin texts available in Perseus:
  http://perseus.uchicago.edu/#LatinTexts

- Thesaurus Linguae Graecae (TLG)
  (RG = Quick Link)
  The TLG is the definitive repository of Greek texts (ancient and medieval) with links to Perseus tools; the database is also linked to the online Liddell-Scott Jones, the premier lexicon for ancient Greek.
  NOTE: For the canon of authors and texts included, you need to consult:
  (Tisch Reference PA3051 .B47 1990 c.1) This print canon is regularly updated in the online TLG to include information about new authors and works as they are included in the TLG Digital Library.

- Packard Humanities Institute Collection of Latin Texts
  (RG = Full Text Collections)
  Covers essentially all Latin literary texts written before A.D. 200, as well as some texts selected from later antiquity; search capability differs from most search engines in that it looks for sequences of letters rather than words; search results are in chronological order and assumes you know the dating of the texts; editions used vary in date and publisher.

  NOTE: For user and word search guidance: http://latin.packhum.org/help/search

- Bibliotheca Teubneriana Latina (BTL)
  (RG = Quick Link)
  Covers all editions of Latin texts (without preface and critical apparatus) published in the Bibliotheca Teubneriana, ranging from antiquity and late antiquity to medieval and neo-Latin texts; the database can be used alongside the Thesaurus Linguae Latinae (TLL), the most comprehensive scholarly dictionary (in progress) of ancient Latin from the earliest times down to AD 600. Each year, the database is extended by the texts of the newly printed Latin editions of the Bibliotheca Teubneriana.
  NOTE: For the canon of authors and texts included, see the listing under “Browse” of the opened BTL database.
  NOTE: For user guide: https://www-degruyter-com.ezproxy.library.tufts.edu/view/db/btl

- Library of Latin Texts (LLT)
  (RG = Full-Text Collections)
  World’s leading database for Latin texts, containing texts from the beginning of Latin literature (Livius Andronicus, 240 BC) through to the texts of the Second Vatican Council (1962-1965); the database can be searched by author, title, clavis, period, and century; the included texts are selected by virtue of their having been edited according to best contemporary scholarly practice; independent research is undertaken to verify facts relating to the text, such as the veracity of the authorial attribution or the dating; errors in word-forms from the printed version are corrected.
  NOTE: For the canon of texts included:
  NOTE: For user and word search guidance:
If you want to determine the contextual meaning of a word in a Greek or Latin text, then consult:

- Perseus Digital Library (Greek and Latin texts) (RG = Quick Link)

  NOTE: Useful access to a compilation of canonical texts (Greek and Latin) with English translation, search and analytical capabilities, but the database is not a complete listing of texts (e.g. Ennius, Annales is missing).

- A Homeric Dictionary for Schools and Colleges, Georg Autenrieth. New York. Harper and Brothers, 1891 (RG = Greek Language) or perseus under philologic or online 1891 edition

- Thesaurus Linguae Graecae (TLG) (RG = Quick Link)

  NOTE: The definitive repository of Greek texts with links to Perseus tools; the database is linked to the online Liddell-Scott Jones, the premier lexicon for ancient Greek.

  NOTE: For word search guidance:

  NOTE: Although the OLD was intended as a replacement for Lewis and Short's dictionary from 1879, its lack of information about Latin writings from after AD 200 has drawn criticism from its users. Lewis and Short's coverage of late and ecclesiastical Latin (if inconsistent), combined with the fact that this dictionary is freely available online, has meant that it has remained in continuous use. (Tisch Reference PA2365.E5 O9 1982) (RG = Quick Link)

- TLL = Thesaurus Linguae Latinae; covers Latin texts to 600 A.D. with lemmata completed for A-M, part of N, all of P, part of R; citations of authors and texts are chronological. (Quick Link)
