Errata in FROM BACTERIA TO BACH AND BACK, as of July 25th, 2017:

1. Accent on p13 (è fatta)
--thanks, Doug Hofstadter

2. p39, Jack Michael, not Lou Michaels and in index 465
--thanks, Arthur Falk, email 2/24/17

3. page 141 in caption on Figure 7.1. There "differences" is written with only one "f".
--thanks, David Strohmeier. 2/25/17

4. Fermilab, not Fermi Lab on p95 and index 458,
--thanks, Thomas Frikker, 2/14/17

5. missing word, “men” on p329
--thanks, Paul Oppenheim 2/2/17

6. On page 153, fn 39, delete the parenthetical statement in this sentence:
An interpreted language in effect compiles each instruction as soon as it is composed (sometimes called “just-in-time compiling”).
--thanks, Allan Schiffman 3.1.17

--thanks , Mattijs Glas.

8. p276 Bybee 2006 is not in references. The reference is
Bybee, Joan, 2006, “From Usage To Grammar: The Mind’s Response To Repetition”
Language, 82, 4: pp711-33.
--thanks, Enoch Lambert

9. p191 delete the left parenthesis before “We”
--thanks, Justin Zazlavsky

10. p13. Corriere della Sera (not Serra)
--thanks, Maurizio Bardelli

11. p. 301: ‘You attribute the quip “Anything you can do I can do meta” to Hofstadter, but in your previous book, Intuition Pumps, you attribute the quote to yourself (p.9 of the Norton hardcover).’
(From Chris Via)

My response:
Dear Chris, As for the quip, Doug thinks I came up with it first, and I think Doug did. Nobody knows. I think we should just share the credit; sorta like Gilbert and Sullivan (or Chase and Sanborn).
Dan

12. p.314: “Eat!—its good for you!” This should be “it’s.”
--thanks, Chris Via (7/1/17)

13. p. 348: “…more accurate knowledge of what was going inside you.” This should read “…going on inside you.”
--thanks, Chris Via (7/1/17)

14. p. 224: In the first paragraph (i.e., after the quote from Strawson) there is a sentence that says "...they don't really exist but it is remarkably useful to act as they did". This should read "remarkably useful to act as if they did".
--thanks, Dr John Doody

15. p. 225: first line of the indented paragraph - "in" should be "is".

16. p. 432: your reference 2015c - Frankfurt "am" Main (not "and" Main) would be correct.
--thanks, Lutz U. Xander, for corrections 15 and 16.
