

NEW YEAR BABY

an award-winning documentary film about genocide, survival, and hope

Spend a special evening with filmmaker and activist
Socheata Poeuv

Wednesday, 22 October, 7pm

Cabot Auditorium, 170 Packard Avenue, Medford

Film screening followed by a Q & A with Poeuv

Reception after the program

Free admission

Born on Cambodian New Year in a refugee camp, Socheata Poeuv grew up in the United States not knowing about her family's life under the Khmer Rouge. In NEW YEAR BABY, she journeys to Cambodia to discover the secrets of her family's past and how they survived the genocide. She finds that what her parents hid in shame also proves their great heroism.

This event is made possible by the generous support of the Arts, Sciences & Engineering Diversity Fund, Department of Drama and Dance, Tisch College of Citizenship and Public Service, Asian American Center, Department of German, Russian, and Asian Languages and Literature, Peace and Justice Studies, Women's Studies Program, and the Graduate Student Council.