Anticipated Year of Graduation:

“Eliot-Pearson offers six concentrations of study for students who wish to focus on a specific area of child, youth, and/or family development. A concentration is not required. Students learn about concentrations during the Master's Pro-Seminar and decide at the end of semester one whether they want a concentration and which to declare. Concentrations are indicated on the transcript. Each concentration has a Faculty in Charge who meets once per semester with all concentrators and who advises and answers questions about that specific concentration. Concentrations and Faculty in Charge are as follows:”

- Clinical Developmental Health and Psychology (Kerri Modry-Mandell)
- Early Childhood  (Christine McWayne)
- Child and Family Policy and Programs  (Fran Jacobs)
- Arts & Child Development  (Kathleen Camara)
- New Technologies & Human Development  (Marina Bers)
- Language & Literacy  (Calvin L. Gidney)

Intended Concentration of Study:

I have reviewed the requirement for the aforementioned concentration, as listed on the Eliot-Pearson Department of Child Study and Human Development, and have the intention of pursuing this concentration.
