

Tufts-in-Japan Credit Rules

(Established November 23, 2009, effective starting Fall 2010)

- 2 language credits maximum per semester may appear on the Tufts transcript, even though students may take more than 2 language courses per term.
- 4 culture courses maximum per semester may appear on the Tufts transcript.
 - Students may take more than four culture courses but need to notify Kiyomi Kagawa of which four courses are to be counted for credit. This must be done within 5 weeks of the first day of classes at Kanazawa.
 - Martial arts courses will count 0.5 credit each.

Japanese major credit transfer from Kanazawa

- Only 2 credits from the entire Kanazawa Program can be used to fulfill the Japanese major requirements categorized under the “four literature/culture courses from Japanese offerings in the department.” They, however, will be considered “lower-level” courses, thus will not fulfill the requirement, “two of these courses must be at the 100 level.”
 - One additional course may be used as fulfilling the category “one course in Japanese culture offered by another department and approved by the program director.”
- Exceptions can be made at the discretion of the Tufts Japanese Program Director.
