Jane Goodall's Roots & Shoots, the Jane Goodall Institute's global humanitarian and environmental youth program, is seeking candidates for a part-time volunteer internship in our Boston office. The position is great for students who want to meet and work with other active young people.

The position is 10-15 hours per week, beginning in September and lasting for 3-4 months. We will need our Intern to be flexible for weekend events during the semester. There is the possibility the internship could turn into a year-long position. Please include your earliest start date, earliest end date and your weekly schedule in your application.

About Jane Goodall's Roots & Shoots

Founded in 1991 by Dr. Jane Goodall and a group of Tanzanian students, the Roots & Shoots program is about making positive change happen—for our communities, for animals and for the environment. With tens of thousands of young people in over 120 countries, the Roots & Shoots network connects youth of all ages who share a desire to create a better world. Young people identify problems in their communities and take action. Through service projects, youth-led campaigns and an interactive website, Roots & Shoots members are making a difference across the globe. About the Jane Goodall Institute

Founded in 1977, the Jane Goodall Institute continues Dr. Goodall's pioneering research on chimpanzee behavior-research that transformed scientific perceptions of the relationship between humans and animals. Today, the Institute is a global leader in the effort to protect chimpanzees and their habitats. It also is widely recognized for establishing innovative community-centered conservation and development programs in Africa, and the Roots & Shoots global environmental and humanitarian youth program, which has groups in 110 countries.
