

TC1B: EAST AND SOUTHEAST ASIA

Thematic concentrations in regional and comparative analysis focus primarily on courses that examine independently and comparatively the history, politics, economics, and cultures of geographic regions outside the United States.

Requirements

In addition to the 5 Core Requirements and the IR Language Requirement, students must take a total of 7 courses to complete their Thematic Concentration. No more than 3 of the 7 courses may be an introductory level course (marked with *).

TC1B Requirements are as follows:

- 2 social science courses
- 1 history course
- 1 culture course
- 1 course on the role of the U.S. in the world (Note: Students in TC1 may alternatively choose any course from the U.S. Role course listing located on the Courses page to fulfill the U.S. Role requirement.)
- 1 research methods course (See the Courses page for a list of approved courses.)
- 1 capstone course (A capstone course may be an upper level seminar course, senior honors thesis, or directed research. See the Capstone page for more information.)

Please Note: It is possible that a single course may satisfy more than one concentration requirement. For example, PS 120 Seminar: Power & Politics in China would satisfy both the social science and capstone requirements. If students complete the above requirements with fewer than 7 courses, they can choose any additional courses from the concentration to reach the required 7 total courses.

Frequently Asked Questions

- If a course is approved for both a Core and TC1B, can I double count it? NO
- If a course is approved for both my TC1B culture requirement and one of my IR language semesters, can I double count it? NO

Historical Course Listing

The course listing below is comprised of all the TC1B courses offered over the last 4 years. For the most up-to-date and current info, view course offerings by semester via the Courses page. In addition, course ID #'s, titles, and prerequisites often change from semester to semester so check SIS or individual departments for the most up-to-date info. If you have any question about whether or not a course counts for your concentration, please contact the IR office.
