Incorporating Service-Learning into Teacher Education Curriculum: A workshop offering for Teacher Educators Monday, May 5th, 2008

Join this full day workshop devoted to helping teacher educators identify resources, materials and curricular entry points that will promote integration of service-learning as a K-12 instructional strategy in specific teacher education programs and individual courses. The workshop will be offered as part of the Massachusetts Department of Education's annual statewide conference, which typically draws more than 250 educators, students and community partners.

What to Expect

- Mix of both theory and practice
- Informal panel discussion led by five Massachusetts teacher education faculty members
- New insights, materials and specific ideas for how to incorporate the teaching of service-learning

Topics and Key Questions

- How do we as teacher educators make service-learning part of "Best Practice for K-12 Teachers"?
- How do we effectively introduce service-learning as a K-12 pedagogy to pre-service and in-service teachers in Massachusetts in our individual courses and teacher education programs?
- Perspectives on Service-Learning as a Pedagogy
- The Practical Angle: Key Elements in K-12 practice
